December/2004

As I passed the receptionist at our local senior centre, I noticed that she was rummaging through the lost-and-found box with one hand while holding the phone in the other.

"I'm sorry," she eventually told the caller. "They're not here. If they turn up, we'll call you at once."

"What were you looking for?" a colleague asked.

"He wanted to know if anyone had turned in his teeth." She replied.

"He needs them for lunch."

Night Moves

One night my father woke himself up with a loud "Hello" to someone in his dream. The next day came and went; Dad thought the nocturnal outburst was his alone to remember. But that night, as he and Mom were getting ready for bed, she said dryly, "If you see anyone you know tonight, just wave."

Bill: I have had to make a living by my wits.

Gill: Well, half a living is better than none.

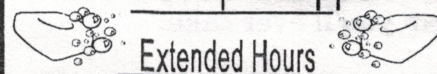

Before setting out on a shopping trip one day, my husband walked into the bedroom. I was bending over to put on some slacks when he said.

"Have your measurements changed?"

"Why?" I replied sharply: "Do I look different?"

Suddenly wary, he paused. "Your head," he said carefully, "Is definitely bigger."

I got a funny birthday card from a friend of mind the other day joking about how our bodies might be getting older, but our minds were still "tarp as shacks".

I want to thank the friend who sent the card, but can't. She forgot to sign it.

The Truth is Out There. So what are you doing Here?

In a small town in Texas, the local madam operated a telephone service. The police finally arrested her and seized her big black book in which her talent was listed. Each officer on the force was assigned a group of the names in it and told to check them out. After a week, the Chief called a meeting to get their reports. When it became the turn of Constable Ralph to tell what he had found, he said, "I'm sorry, Chief, but I think I should disqualify myself. One of the ladies on whom I called is an eighty-four-year-old woman. She is so charming that I have to tell you that I have fallen in love with her." "Holy Cow!" exclaimed the Chief. "I'm sure surprised at you, Ralph. You've been a policeman almost all your life -- and here you are, falling for the oldest trick in the book!"

It was Christmas and the judge was in a merry mood as he asked the defendant, "What are you charged with?" "Doing my Christmas shopping early sir", replied the defendant. "Well that's not a crime", said the judge! "How early were you doing this shopping?" "Before the store opened", answered the prisoner.

The father was very proud when his son went off to college. He came to tour the school on Parents' Day and observed his son hard at work in the chemistry lab. "What are you working on?" he asked. "A universal solvent," explained the son, "a solvent that'll dissolve anything." The father whistled, clearly impressed, and then wondered aloud, "What'll you keep it in?"

For thirty years, Johnson had arrived at work at 9 a.m. on the dot. He had never missed a day and was never late. Consequently, when on one particular day 9 a.m. passed without Johnson's arrival, it caused a sensation. Finally, precisely at 10, Johnson showed up, clothes dusty and torn, his face scratched and bruised, his glasses bent. He limped painfully to the time clock, punched in, and aware that all eyes were upon him explained:

"I tripped and rolled down two flights of stairs in the subway. I nearly killed myself."

His boss replied skeptically, "And to roll down two flights of stairs took you a whole hour?"

A man went into the proctologist's office for his first exam. Well, when the man sat down in the examination room, he noticed that there were three items on a stand next to the doctor's desk: a tube of K-Y jelly, a rubber glove, and a beer.

When the doctor came in, the man said, "Look Doc, this is my first exam... I know what the K-Y is for... and I know what the glove is for... but what's the BEER for?" At this instant, the doctor became noticeably outraged and stormed over to the door. The doc flung the door open and yelled to his nurse, "Come on, nurse!!!!... I said a BUTT LIGHT!!!"

My feet swollen with advancing pregnancy, I was standing shoeless while preparing dinner one night and squabbling with my husband over little things. In mounting frustration, he finally demanded to know what made me think I was the perfect wife.

"Well," I laughed, "I'm barefoot, pregnant, and I'm in the kitchen, cooking!"

After an early cold snap, my wife asked me to pick up some long underwear for her. I was looking around a department store when a saleswoman asked if she could help. I told her what I wanted, and she said I would find it in the lingerie department.

"You know you're in Saskatchewan," I grinned, "when long underwear is considered lingerie."

We were thrilled when we moved to the country, where we had a big yard for the dog and we soon knew all the neighbors. We didn't even have to lock the door - until the dog figured out how to open it.

Have you ever noticed? Anybody going slower than you is an idiot, and anyone going faster than you is a maniac.

Tell me what you need, and I'll tell you how to get along without it.

A certain man had invited the pastor and his wife for dinner and it was little Joey's job to set the table. But when it came time to eat, Joey's mother said with surprise.

"Why didn't you give Mrs. Brown a knife and a fork?" "I didn't think I needed to," Joey explained, "I heard Daddy say she always eats like a horse."
